

ANTOINETTE WESTPHAL COLLEGE OF MEDIA ARTS & DESIGN

Drexel University's Antoinette Westphal College of Media Arts & Design is a top-ranked institution that prepares students to begin or enhance their careers in the design, media, and nonprofit arts sectors. Taught by expert faculty who integrate opportunities for real-world learning experiences into every program, students learn to incorporate aesthetics, technologies, and the realities of the marketplace into their areas of study.

Many of the graduate programs are accredited by the Board of the National Association of Schools of Art and Design, a select group of institutions that require high standards of curriculum, faculty expertise and accomplishment, facilities, administration, and demonstrated excellence of student work. Focused on creative strategy and research, the college offers nine programs leading to the master of science degree, which assume varying levels of expertise and academic preparation.

With an emphasis on experiential learning through studio instruction and a focus on tackling the real-world challenges of professional practice, students graduate ready to succeed in an ever-changing world. The next generation of leadership begins here.
